Sara showed her love for others by putting her life on the line each time she responded to a call for over eight years. "You had no doubt she was doing what she was meant to do." Although she has gone from life, Sara's family guarantees she will continue to be a blessing to others with the implementation of Sara's Shield to provide the possibilities of others to become Paramedics, and are behind the Sara Weaver Act that would give back to the families of EMS professionals who are killed.
